POSITIONS AVAILABLE FOR FALL 2004-5

Associate or Assistant Professors of International Business to teach both graduate and undergraduate courses at Rutgers University, School of Management, Newark and New Brunswick, New Jersey

The Department of Management and Global Business at the School of Business is looking for an International Business professor. Candidates with a fresh Ph.D to those with a widely-recognized research record, who may be given tenure immediately, will be considered.

The successful candidates will teach in the MBA and undergraduate programs, and may have an opportunity to work with doctoral students in International Business and Management areas.

Rutgers is one of the oldest and distinguished universities in the country. The School of Business and the MGB department contain world-renowned scholars. The New York and Philadelphia metropolitan areas include one of the largest concentrations of global companies in the world.

Please contact Prof. Chao Chen (Department Chair) or Prof. Farok Contractor at School of Business, Rutgers University, 111 Washington Street, Newark, NJ 07102, (973) 353-1650 or (973) 353-1664 (Fax).

Profs. Farok Contractor and John Cantwell will be attending the Annual Meeting and can be reached at the Placement Office or at their hotels.
