

Skolkovo is a newly-established business school in Moscow, Russia. The school is privately funded and is a priority project of the Russian government. We aim to grow entrepreneurial leaders for fast-moving economies and to become the knowledge center on leading and managing change in those economies. Our degree programs will start in 2009.

To realize this exciting venture, we are looking for entrepreneurial academics who are thought leaders and have a research agenda (or are willing to develop one) around critical management issues in fast-moving economies such as the ones of India, China and Russia. We are also looking for leading academics who are interested in spending sabbatical time with us in Moscow.

The school is currently housed in the center of Moscow but will move to a state-of-the-art facility in Skolkovo at the outskirts of Moscow in the second half of 2009. More information on us can be obtained at www.skolkovo.ru Interested faculty should contact Professor Wilfried Vanhonacker, Dean, Skolkovo at Wilfried_Vanhonacker@skolkovo.ru
