

Kent State University, Kent Ohio USA
College of Business Administration and Graduate School of Management
John F. Fiedler-BorgWarner Endowed Chair in Global Business
Studies

Description: The College seeks applications and nominations for an endowed chair position in support of the international business curriculum at the Baccalaureate, Masters and Doctoral levels. The chair holder will also interact with and support the college's Global Management Center. The successful candidate will be expected to:

- Teach appropriate international coursework at both the undergraduate and graduate level
- Mentor doctoral students who have an interest in international topics
- Provide academic leadership by publishing in high quality peer reviewed journals and working with others in international/global fields across the university
- Work with junior faculty to develop research skills in international business
- Actively support the college's and university's mission to enhance further its international standing and visibility
- Serve on college and university committees and actively participate in the life of the college and university
- Obtain speakers and take lead in occasional Global Business Speaker Series

Qualifications: The person selected will have and earned doctorate in a business field and an outstanding research record with major contributions to the field of international business.

Appointment: Tenure Track at the level of full professor

Start Date: ASAP – The recruiting process starts July 2008 and will remain open until filled

Salary: Competitive

Representative at AIB Meeting: George E. Stevens, Dean College of Business Administration and Graduate School of Management

Contact: Frederick W. Schroath, Associate Dean
Graduate School of Management
Chair, Fiedler-BorgWarner Search Committee
P.O. Box 5190
Kent OH 44242 USA

Email: fschroat@kent.edu

Voice: (330) 672-2282 Fax: (330) 672-7303