If you want to teach experienced graduate students in the case method, and if you want to work with seasoned business practitioners in strategic interventions, AIM may be your ideal school.

THE ASIAN INSTITUTE OF MANAGEMENT invites applications for academically qualified candidates (PhD) for Full Time Faculty Positions, Assistant Professor or higher, who are:

- Experts in the following functional management disciplines: Human Behavior in Organizations, Planning and Strategy, and Marketing.

- Interested in emerging issues in Asian Management: Globalization, Strategy, Supply Chains, Family Corporations, Technology and Innovation, CSR and Sustainability, among others.

- Candidates from allied fields: Communications, Engineering and Technology, Statistics, Design, Psychology, Sociology, Law, etc. AIM welcomes novel applications of allied fields into management practice.

AIM continues to push case learning as its main pedagogy. AIM also converts learning into real practice, as evidenced by its robust corporate, NGO, and government learning interventions. AIM strongly encourages faculty to pursue real world consultancies, in order to stay cutting-edge in practice.

AIM is a pioneer in international management education in Asia. It was established in 1968 with the Harvard Business School, academicians, and businessmen. The founders envisioned AIM as a source of 21st century Asian change agents and designed the school’s master and executive programs to produce managers with the skills, knowledge, and attitudes relevant to Asia’s emerging markets. Their initiative made AIM one of the most experienced graduate schools in Asia with 40,000 alumni. While AIM is based in the Philippines, its clientele are in India, Indonesia, Malaysia, and the Greater Mekong area. AIM is the first school in Southeast Asia to achieve accreditation from the US-based Association to Advance Collegiate Schools of Business (AACSB) based on the world’s highest international standards.

Should you be interested to learn more about the Asian Institute of Management, Prof. Dynah A. Basuil of AIM will be presenting a paper at the Conference. She will also be there the entire Conference period. You may get in touch with Prof. Basuil at dbasuil@aim.edu and arrange to meet with her after sessions. The following attachments would be appreciated:

- Curriculum vitae: including professional management experience (if any), publications and publications in progress, and teaching experience.

- Three (3) professional and/or academic contacts.
