Faculty positions are available starting Fall 2013 in the fields of accounting, finance, organization theory, organizational behavior, management science, information systems, marketing, quantitative methods, operations management, entrepreneurship, strategic management, and human resource management. Primary responsibilities include teaching courses at the undergraduate and graduate level. The typical full teaching load is 6 credit hours per semester. Performance assessment is predominantly based on research and teaching activities.

Minimum qualifications: Ph.D. in related fields; evidence of scholarly research and/or potential for research, and teaching experience in related fields. Preferred qualifications: Full-time teaching experience at the university level, significant record of publications in refereed journals—preferably in journals included in SSCI—and/or other scholarly contributions. Candidates for the Assistant Professor position are preferred but rank is negotiable contingent on experience and research evidence.
