ABOUT SMU:
The Singapore Management University (SMU) was officially incorporated in January 2000. It is Singapore's first private university funded by the government of Singapore. SMU's curriculum aims to groom outstanding leaders and creative entrepreneurs capable of excelling in a rapidly changing world. SMU has a number of collaboration agreements with the Wharton School of the University of Pennsylvania, the most notable of which is the Wharton-SMU Research Center.
SMU offers competitive remuneration packages comparable with top US schools and provides assistance to international faculty to help them take up their appointments in Singapore. Singapore enjoys low tax rates, high standards of living and a stable government. English is the language of public administration and education in Singapore.

APPLICATION PROCEDURES:
SMU will be interviewing at the AIB Meeting, 5–8 July 2003. Candidates interested in meeting with SMU’s representative should send a curriculum vitae and a sample of their written work to managementcv@smu.edu.sg. They can also post their curriculum vitae’s to the address below.
